As far as it is possible, when the original document is written in an alphabet which differs from the western alphabet, it is recommended that the corresponding translation include the name of the degree title in its original language transcribed into the western alphabet instead of translating that name.

The translation into Spanish is exempt of legalisation.

III. INFORMATION ABOUT VERIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION

In order to gain access to University of Alcalá degree programmes, applicants must present in the stipulated period an authenticated photocopy of the academic documents which accredit their compliance of the access requirements.

When this authentication is performed in the Postgraduate School, the interested party will present the original document together with a copy of it. The Postgraduate School will authenticate original and copy, satisfying itself that the contents of both are identical and stamping with the seal of authentication each and every one of the pages of the copy. Once this process has been completed, the original document will be returned to the interested party and the authenticated copies will be placed on his or her file.

If the photocopies were already authenticated by the body which issued the original document or by a notary, or if, in the case of academic documents issued outside Spain, they were already authenticated by Spanish diplomatic or consular missions in the document's country of origin, there will be no need to furnish the original document together with the copy.
